Home & Tenant Insurance

Banking | Insurance | Planning

You've got a lot to protect, even if you rent your home.

That's why you need renters insurance.

Replace your belongings after a loss due to theft, fire or water damage.

Insurance also protects you if someone gets hurt or someone else's property gets damaged because of your negligence.

Insure your Belongings

Think about all the things you own...

The furniture in your bedroom and living room and all the items in your bathroom and kitchen. Think about the clothes, household items, toys, electronics and other things. Now imagine having to replace all of those items at once due to fire or certain types of water damage.

Insurance doesn't just cover furniture, TV's and expensive items. Insurance will repair or replace pots, pans, clothes and most other household items. Even if you think your belongings have little value, you might be surprised by how much it would cost to replace everything - all at once.

However, keep in mind that coverage for some insured items may be subject to exclusions or maximum limits. Read your policy to determine your exact coverage.

Where would you live if you were displaced from your home?

If there was a fire in your apartment and you were forced to leave the building until the damage was fixed, where would you stay?

Insurance also covers things such as:

- Hotel bills
- Restaurant meals
- Moving costs

Protect yourself in the event of a lawsuit.

Tenants are responsible for the harm they cause to any part of the building and to others who live or visit there.

For example, if a fire started by your defective toaster, or flooding caused by a malfunctioning dishwasher, could cause a great deal of damage not only to the tenant's unit, but to the entire apartment complex, potentially leaving the tenant liable for damage. Tenant's insurance includes liability coverage comparable to that included in a typical homeowner policy.
